NOW IT'S BABY D

Child abuse victim was failed by the system, concludes damning report

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

AN inquiry into the circumstances in which an 11-week-old boy suffered horrific physical abuse has found failings in Haringey's multi-agency child protection system.

Meanwhile, it has emerged that, despite an extensive police investigation, nobody has been convicted of inflicting the injuries on the child.

The baby was admitted to hospital after being taken to A&E by his mother in April 2013 when it was discovered that he had suffered a fractured left arm.

X-rays showed that he had sustained multiple fractures of the ribs as well as a possible fracture of the left leg, all sustained when he was just one month old.

The 17-year-old mother and her 34-year-old partner were arrested and charged with neglect and causing or allowing grievous bodily harm.

At the time, the mother was living with her father and her half-brother, who had been placed there after absconding from a care home. Both had history of violence and were also suspects.

The case against the mother and her partner was dismissed when it came to trial at crown court because of the non-availability of key witnesses. The child was taken into council care as a ward of court.

A serious case review carried out by the borough's Local Safeguarding Children's Board and published on Monday concluded that there were repeated failures among health professionals and social workers relating to the safety of the child – identified as Baby D in the report.

The chairman of the board Sir Paul Ennals said there were many lessons to be learned by the agencies.

He said: "With hindsight there were many episodes during D's first three months, and earlier during the mother's pregnancy, when frontline staff could have acted differently."

Liz Morris, Haringey Council's Lib Dem spokeswoman on children, added: "It was worrying that not one of the agencies involved in the case responded to what the review states was a 'plethora of information, risk factors and family history when this was clearly a child at risk.'

□ This latest case follows previous child care scandals in the borough, the most infamous of which were 17-month old Baby P, who died in 2007 at the hands of his mother, her boyfriend and her boyfriend's brother, and eight-year-old Victoria Climbié, aged eight, who was tortured and murdered by her guardians 10 years earlier.

Development could spell 'decades of disruption'

AMBITION plans for the major redevelopment of Tottenham Hale moved a step closer last week amid protests that the vested interest of business is being put before the community.

More than 2,000 homes – half of them affordable accommodation, together with shops, restaurants, public spaces, improved transport links and new bridge access to Lea Valley Regional Park – are being proposed, as well as 400 new jobs.

The new district centre, based around the existing transport hub station, will be created, joining private and publicly-owned land.

Tottenham Hale has been designated a Housing Zone by Mayor of London Boris Johnson and the project will benefit from a share of £45million which has been earmarked for regeneration.

But Tottenham Hale resident Martin Ball, chairman of Friends of Down Lane Park, said residents did not want a "downtown Manhattan" with tower blocks.

"The idea is to knock down the retail park and build new shops with flats above," he said.

"Tower blocks near Watermead Way and Monument Way have also figured in proposals. The new district centre has never been demanded by local people.

"It is the creation of those with land interests in the area to justify building more shops and putting tower blocks on top of the retail units."

Last week Haringey Council chose Hermes Retail – the landlords of Tottenham Hale Retail Park – and its development partner, Argent, to work with in a joint venture on the regeneration.

The nine-hectare retail park forms a substantial part of the scheme.

The council and its partners will also work with Transport for London on development above Tottenham Hale station, which is on the London to Stansted Airport and Cambridge route and has already been earmarked as a Crossrail 2 station.

Alan Strickland, cabinet member for housing and regeneration, said: "This is a great step forward in our plans to create a new district centre, bringing much-needed new jobs and investment to Haringey and north London."

But Mr Ball, who lives in Park View Road, said what local people wanted was the delivery of decent council services, cleaner streets, better lighting and more social housing.

And he warned that the huge scale of the redevelopment would cause widespread disruption and inconvenience.

"They are not tinkering with a few small areas of land," he added.

"This is on a massive scale and Tottenham Hale will be turned into a construction site for a couple of decades."

Back to college for Lord Sugar

Looking to the future: Lord Sugar opened the new University Technical College of Tottenham last week

THE face of The Apprentice officially opened a state-of-the-art technical college in Tottenham last week.

Entrepreneur and multi-millionaire Lord Sugar met students aged 14 to 18 at the University Technical College of Tottenham in High Road and saw some of the facility's high-tech equipment, including £1million worth of robotics.

The college, which specialises in technology and science for sport, health and engineering, is sponsored by Tottenham Hotspur FC and has been built next to the White Hart Lane stadium.

Lord Sugar, the former chairman of the club, who sold his majority stake in Tottenham in 2001, has thrown his support behind the college, saying the club had done "a great public service" in investing in it.

He toured the facility and answered questions from students and staff.

"You cannot fail to be impressed by what the University Technical College of Tottenham offers to its students – a fantastic learning environment with an opportunity for students to get the skills they need to build a successful career," he said.

'Why couldn't it be a red bus?'

Labour's pink campaign vehicle leaves students non-plussed

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

"WHY couldn't it be a red bus?" – one first-time voter asked Labour Party chiefs as its pink bus, aimed at encouraging women to go to the ballot box, rolled into the borough.

Edda Valle, a Year 13 politics, history and English student, asked the question that has been on many lips since Labour revved up its bright pink van last month in a bid to get more women interested in the forthcoming general election.

"What would you say to women who feel alienated by the fact that they are being talked down to by having a pink bus – I mean – why couldn't it just be a red bus?" Edda asked MP Tessa Jowell and Labour's prospective parliamentary candidate for Enfield North Joan Ryan, who answered questions from first-time voters at Enfield County School, in Holly Walk, Enfield, on Wednesday last week.

After headlines surrounding the launch of the bus suggested that the vehicle seemed to have been branded in Barbie doll colours, Ms Jowell was prepared for the grilling.

"It's a pink bus because the Labour Party already does so much using the colour red," the former Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport told Edda. "Whenever women do something for women they are often made fun of."

Asked after the question and answer session whether it was disingenuous to say that the colour of the bus was not important when pink is strongly associated with the incentivisation of women, she said: "With respect, that's attributing too much to the colour."

"As the bus has gone round the country, women who have been on it have greeted it with nothing but enthusiasm as it has given them the opportunity to talk to women MPs and women whom they recognise. And that is very important when in the last election nine million women didn't vote."

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

On the spot: Tessa Jowell (right) and Joan Ryan were quizzed by Enfield County School pupils

On the pink campaign leaflet handed out by party officials one of the promises to women Labour is making said that it would offer 25 hours' free childcare a week – ten more than currently on offer from the coalition.

Mrs Jowell, the MP for Dulwich and West Norwood, said: "I've just completed a review on childcare for Lambeth and Southwark and we have established that 25 hours' free childcare would make a huge difference to getting more women into the workplace."

She said that free childcare, based on means-testing parents, would be "very expensive" and added: "All spending decisions have got to be balanced against bringing down the deficit."

Her visit to Enfield came on the same day that a petition with 200,775 signatures was presented to Chancellor George Osborne calling for an end to the classing of sanitary products being branded non-essential "luxury" items.

Asked if Labour's commitment to women included axing the VAT on tampons, Ms Jowell insisted that there was no way it could commit to a spending decision on that. However, she added: "Of course, tampons aren't a luxury."

Cafe in the library: Urvashi Roe is making freshly-baked cakes, with her coffee

New cafe's Bake Off boss full of well-roasted coffee beans

STRONG coffee and freshly baked cakes will be fuelling studious minds after a TV star launched a new cafe in a library.

Urvashi Roe, who lives in Enfield with her husband and two children, has opened the area's latest foodie hang-out – right beside the stacks and shelves of literature in Enfield Town library.

The star of series two of the Great British Bake Off has brought artisan, single estate coffee to the borough and is embarking on spreading the word about the power of the well-roasted bean.

With two types of single estate beans that are roasted in England and ground into coffee on-site, the former marketing manager explains that the new enterprise is offering something different to the chains that line some high streets. "We are step by step showing people how great real coffee can be," she said.

Asked why she chose to tender for a cafe in a library, a venue traditionally associated with students, older people and job seekers, she said: "The opportunity came up – we came and had a look and I realised it's small enough not to be scary, but has enough scope to be able to do something different."

"We've got loads of coffee shops in Enfield, but food-wise we don't have enough adventurous types of restaurants and cafes, so this is our menu with open sandwiches on Holtwhites bread, for example, and soup made to order."

Urvashi is on a mission to bring healthy cakes and unusual twists on tradition to Enfield. "People can never believe, for example, that there is sweet potato in this chocolate cake and we make our own home-made coleslaw using crème fraîche instead of mayonnaise," she said.

"A proportion of our profits go towards the library and we think we can work with the library to be part of a flourishing community hub that incorporates cookery lessons and lectures with the traditional things a library is associated with."

And in a bid to meet the growing demand for cakes baked every day, Urvashi is calling on passionate foodies to apply for work in the cafe.

"I know that there are lots of mums, for example, who would like to work somewhere like this," she added. "Our hours would fit in with school days as we open at 10am and close at 4pm."

Trio take top spots at talent contest

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE borough's future singing stars serenaded audiences last week in Enfield's very own X Factor contest.

The finals of the annual Power of Dreams competition were held in the Millfield Theatre in Edmonton on Thursday and saw three rising stars crowned as he ones to watch.

Sixteen-year-old Lizzie Reynolds walked away as champion of the 16 and under singing category.

Terry Sole triumphed in the dance and urban section while the star of the over 17 singing category was Sophie Kingsley.

The event was originally dreamt up as a way of offering incentives to young people in the borough to stay out of gangs and engage with their local communities.

Enfield Council's head of community safety Chris Bond said that events such as the Power of Dreams were one of the ways in which the local authority was trying to make sure young people do not get lured into a life dominated by gangs and petty criminality.

Speaking to the Advertiser after the finals, he said: "It brings the community together. It is something a bit different and that is important. Everybody who goes there gets so much out of it."

"And it's not the usual anti-gang thing that we do – but it is important to try a range of approaches. We are always looking for different and new approaches to tackle these issues."

"For example, I saw something recently where in Boston they get people involved in gangs to blow glass which they then display in the civic buildings in the city. It looked like a really positive way to get people engaged in their community."

AN epilepsy charity has given an award to a girl born with the severest form of the condition as a thank you for raising its profile.

Thirteen-year-old Scarlett McDonagh, who is a student at St Martha's Senior School, in Camlet Way, Hadley Wood, was given the award by Epilepsy Action, which raises funds for research and awareness of the condition.

Scarlett shared the award with mum Katie in recognition of the work they have done for the charity at events and discussion groups aimed at helping other parents whose children are living with epilepsy.

Scarlett, who lives in Hadley Wood, suffers regular fits despite having had brain surgery.

She used to have more than 100 seizures every day, ranging in severity, and spent nine months at Great Ormond Street Hospital, in central London, as a youngster. She also underwent surgery on five occasions between 2007 and 2013 and still has around 20 seizures a day.

But Katie says the treatment has changed her daughter's life.

She told the Advertiser: "We are extremely grateful for the chance to be able to share our experiences with other families who are going through a similar experience. Thanks to the work Epilepsy Action does, Scarlett has been able to lead a much more normal life and go to school much more often."

Award-winner: Scarlett with mum Katie

"We were very touched to be given the award."

The mum and daughter team won praise for helping to make a DVD to help promote Epilepsy Action, which was aired at Scarlett's school.

A spokeswoman for the charity told the Advertiser: "They are a lovely family and have done a lot for us. As well as helping to make the advice, they have spoken at events we have organised to tell other people about their experiences."

Chase Farm set for a complete rebuild

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

PATIENTS will see Chase Farm Hospital knocked down and rebuilt – just 18 months after a campaign to save the A&E and maternity wings failed to stop their closure.

At a meeting of Enfield Council's planning committee at the Civic Centre, in Silver Street, Enfield, last Thursday night, councillors voted unanimously to approve an application from the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust to demolish the existing buildings and replace them with a new hospital, a new primary school and a new housing development.

The committee approved proposals for a three-form entry primary school, 500 new homes and "up to 32,000 square metres of replacement hospital facilities".

Joan Ryan, Labour's prospective parliamentary candidate for Enfield North, the constituency in which the hospital, in The Ridgeway, is situated, made a deputation to the councillors, during which she referred to a letter from David Sloman, chief executive of the Royal Free trust, to the leader of the council, Doug Taylor, which refers to new designs that indicate space for the hospital that will be "closer to 25,000 square metres".

She told the meeting: "I think this figure is very small for a normal-sized hospital – it seems to me to be very little indeed."

"Sadly, this application offers no guarantee for the future of Chase Farm Hospital other than warm words. It is the death blow to the pledge made by Nick de Bois and David Cameron at the last general election."

However, hospital chiefs were adamant that the

An uncertain future: Chase Farm Hospital

25,000 sq m approximation for the site had always been in their plans and had been discussed from the outset with the figure of "up to 32,000 sq m" kept in case of need for expansion of the hospital services.

Mr de Bois, the MP for Enfield North, also made a deputation to the meeting and speaking to the Advertiser afterwards he dismissed as "fraudulent" Ms Ryan's warnings that the hospital would ultimately close.

He said: "Tonight's approval does two things – it marks a big step towards delivering world-class healthcare for Enfield residents and it exposes as fraudulent the claims of Joan Ryan that Chase Farm will close."

Welcoming the committee's unanimous decision to approve the proposals, Mr Sloman said: "This is great news not only for the hospital and its staff, but also for the local community.

Redevelopment will leave 'phenomenal legacy'

THE head of the trust responsible for redeveloping Chase Farm Hospital has told the Advertiser that the new development will leave a "phenomenal legacy" in the borough.

Speaking after the decision to grant planning permission to provisional proposals to redevelop the Chase Farm site, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, David Sloman, chief executive of the Royal Free NHS Foundation Trust, said that the revamp was "desperately needed".

"The buildings on the site are falling down," he said. "We have had to condemn the laundry – some of the buildings have reached the end of their safe lives. They are not fit for purpose."

"The original buildings were designed to provide one sort of service – but over time their use has changed."

"So, for example, the pathology department in the current site was not built to deal with the advanced technology that comes with 21st-century medicine."

Mr Sloman said at the moment the way the hospital was laid out was interfering with treatment for patients – with buildings spread out over a sprawling site forcing patients to be transferred from one building to another, often in wheelchairs.

"For patients it means that they don't have a good experience and it risks compromising their dignity," he added,

Mugging victim, 82, in hospital

A PENSIONER was rushed to hospital after she was attacked and robbed by two youths in broad daylight.

The 82-year-old woman was set upon by two attackers in Devonshire Road, Palmers Green, in Aldermans Hill just after 1pm on Friday.

The victim was taken to a central London hospital in a critical condition by London Air Ambulance. Her condition now is said to be stable.

No arrests have been made and inquiries are ongoing.

Detective Constable Ryan Clark, from Enfield

CID, said: "This was a callous attack on a vulnerable member of the community who was out in the middle of the day shopping for groceries."

"There would have been a lot of people in the area at the time. My team is keen to hear from anyone who saw anyone suspicious and in particular two youths making off from the scene of the attack."

Anyone with information is asked to call police on 101 or contact Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555, 111 quoting reference CRIS 5205449/15.

Brick killer 'was on a cocktail of drugs'

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MAN who bludgeoned a stranger to death with a brick has been jailed for life.

Malachi Lindo, 27, of Bowles Green, Turkey Street, Enfield, was sentenced to a minimum of 14 years behind bars at the Old Bailey on Monday.

Last week Lindo was found guilty of murdering Philip Steels, 51, of Burncroft Avenue, Brimsdown, in Green Street, Brimsdown, by smashing his face with a brick.

Mr Steels had been drinking at home on the evening of Wednesday, September 3, last year when he decided to go out.

He had been arguing with a neighbour and was said to be in an angry state.

He was walking along Green Street when he became involved in a fight with Lindo – the two men were strangers to each other.

Mr Steels fell to the ground and Lindo grabbed a house brick which was in a pile nearby and repeatedly smashed it into Mr Steels' face.

Lindo crossed to the other side of the street and sat beside a car for 15 minutes while Mr Steels lay in a pool of blood.

When police arrived at about 12.45am, Lindo ran off towards Hertford Road.

When officers saw Mr Steels' body, they chased Lindo, who had started rolling across the road. He was arrested on suspicion of murder.

The brick was found lying beside Mr Steels' body along with a blue baseball cap Lindo had been wearing. A rucksack found nearby contained a large quantity of drugs belonging to Lindo, who was taken to North Middlesex Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, and then to an east London police station.

Searches of his home revealed more drugs paraphernalia.

Speaking after the guilty verdict had been handed down, Acting Detective Sergeant Mike Stubbins,

Life sentence: Malachi Lindo must serve a minimum of 14 years for the murder of Philip Steels in Green Street, Brimsdown of the Met's murder squad, said: "This was a horrendous attack on an innocent member of the public, brought about by a complicated and confused individual being high on a cocktail of drugs."

"Lindo had been taking numerous drugs. He has stated that his mind started playing games and he felt he was in a parallel dimension."

"This is a tragic case where an innocent member of the public has felt the wrath of a young man whose life had been unravelling and who had turned to experimenting with illegal substances."

"Unfortunately, he let out his frustration on the first person he saw, leading to the death of Philip Steels."

"The investigating team worked tirelessly to bring this defendant to justice and to try and bring some form of relief to the family of Mr Steels. I only hope that over time the terrible facts of Mr Steels' death fade in the minds of his family and friends and this result is able to bring an element of closure to this tragic incident."

ColumnistEnfield Borough Police Commander

AS we approach the end of another financial year, it is a good time to reflect on what has happened for policing in the borough and how we are responding to crime.

I am really pleased to tell you that there have been 127 fewer robberies, 289 fewer victims of motor vehicle crime and 476 fewer victims of burglary compared to the previous year.

I hope you have seen some of our messages around the borough on the good work we have been doing.

Our main challenge remains to reduce violent crime, where crime has increased by almost 26 per cent, and to build the confidence of the community in what we do.

Violent crime has increased across London and, as I mentioned in my last column, Operation Equinox is running to reduce violent offences across London.

We are taking action to disrupt gangs and criminal behaviour and targeting those we believe pose the greatest risk.

I have increased the number of officers in the teams responsible for gang crime and serious offences and we have already had some notable arrests and successes.

We also want to be more visible and reassure you that we are tackling crime in the borough. To achieve this, we have reviewed how we operate neighbourhood policing across London.

We will be re-allocating some of the work currently being done on the neighbourhood teams, to free up their time for more patrols, to prevent crime and arrest offenders.

Don't make us pay twice for rubbish collections!

FOR the past ten years I have been reporting fly-tipping incidents in the area of Enfield Town, Bush Hill Park and Ponders End, although I ceased to cover the latter area three years ago.

When the council used to supply one free black bag per household, if it contained garden refuse it was often rejected. It had to be disguised in some way and also more garden fires were in evidence. This authority only relented when it was found green matter could be included for recycling.

The present three-bin system was introduced as an incentive for us to separate more materials. Some bins are filled to overflowing and some are left with a large sticker if not filled correctly. Any attempt to empty bins on alternative weeks will lead to disaster and to make any additional charges will lead to more fly-tipping.

When it was decided, a couple of years ago, to charge residents to remove large domestic items, I observed that furniture was often broken up before being dumped. Bedding is a constant problem.

It was reported a month ago that the rise in fly-tipping nationwide was blamed on irregular collections. Enfield Council has now set the tax rate for this year, although it could have risen by two per cent.

They are able to charge £60 for each abandoned shopping trolley. I calculate this should have raised £104,000 over the past four years, just in my local area. The council must be satisfied with this income and not demand that any resident pays twice to clear any kind of rubbish.

The time has come for a brand new hospital

HAVING read the letter from Councillor Alev Cazimoglu ("Chase Farm proposals are totally inadequate", Advertiser, March 4), I find myself in total agreement.

For ten years, the people of Enfield put up a brave fight to save the services of Chase Farm. It beggars belief that anyone would want to do away with it, but unfortunately the hospital's demise came about because of the intrusion of Joan Ryan.

The chief executive of the Royal Free NHS Foundation Trust ought to hang his head in shame for allowing his planner to build a hospital for which square footage area is going to be nowhere near big enough to take care of the population of Enfield and beyond, and also people from the 500-plus houses which are going to be built.

It is absolutely absurd. North Mid and Barnet can just about cope now. What does the future hold? Chaos.

How about building a newer hospital, further along The Ridgeway? They rebuilt North Mid and Barnet. Why not build a completely new facility which the people of Enfield can be proud of, complete with all major services?

Chase Farm for me always has a country feel about it which the other hospitals have not got. It has served the people well, but the time has come for a brand new one. Money is no object – the government can always find money when it wants to.

VW Bigg
Windsor Road,
Bullsmoor

What has our MP achieved?

THE NHS is going to be a key, local issue at the forthcoming general election, given the current situation at Chase Farm Hospital.

Last week we saw Joan Ryan, the prospective Labour candidate in Enfield North, secure a reprieve for some of the NHS staff living at the site, so that they don't have to leave their homes before the summer. The only Chase Farm campaign I can recall Nick de Bois achieving anything on recently is with regards to the extension of hours at the hospital's urgent care centre – and even that is not guaranteed in the long term.

During Mr de Bois' time in office and despite his promises to the contrary, we have lost much-loved services from the hospital, including the maternity unit and the A&E department.

These were services that were protected for 13 years during the time when Ms Ryan was MP. These facilities closed three years into Mr de Bois' watch.

The records of both on Chase Farm Hospital are plain to see and I am sure they will be a factor come the election.

They're all in my garden!

IN reply to Alan Bird's question ("Where are all the sparrows?", Advertiser, March 4), they are all living between my back garden and Tatem Park.

I provide an excellent, all-year-round "restaurant" for them and the flock are thriving, providing much entertainment.

So, be assured that they have not all disappeared, although nationally their numbers have declined in recent years as a result of many different factors.

Luckily, however, all is well in Palmers Green.
Reeva Godson

Ask park users what they think

S Daniel Anderson ("Letter on park closures is riddled with inaccuracies," Advertiser, March 4) criticises me for being "uppy" about the council's plans to keep unlocked all our parks.

I would invite him to talk to residents who back on to parks and see who is uppy.

In fact, it would have been helpful if the council had bothered to consult residents, friends of parks and police before initially deciding to keep open parks at night.

They all have good reasons to be uppy about the council's latest sham consultation.

Mr Anderson mentions inaccuracies and supposed cuts in police numbers and stations, so let me correct inaccuracies in Labour literature.

I have helped secure more than 100 more police officers in Enfield and saved Southgate police station from being closed and sold off.

He may like to visit the (not closed) Southgate police station and meet the (not cut) new police officer recruits who are tasked with policing his ward. He may even find them now uppy, too.

Drivers don't pay attention

I HAVE just read your article about zebra crossings ("It's an accident waiting to happen", Advertiser, March 11).

I had the same experience last Tuesday morning. Northbound traffic had stopped and I was a few steps across the road when a southbound car drove straight past.

What's more, I had the same thing happen last year on the next zebra crossing, near The Hop Poles.

On this occasion a southbound double decker bus had pulled up and a northbound car drove straight past. The driver and I exchanged astonished looks.

I feel that it is nothing to do with the positioning of the crossings, but the inattention of the drivers on each of these occasions.

Play highlights the life of tragic teen Mischa

'We just wanted to do justice to him and for Karen to be heard'

In rehearsal: The cast of As a Mother of a Brown Boy

By Henry Ellis

newsdesk@nrlnews.co.uk

A THEATRE group is set to revive a play celebrating the short life of a teenager who died during a police chase following a botched raid on a jewellers.

Mischa Niering was just 19 when he crashed his moped into a parked car while fleeing from police following the raid on Tiffany's, in Sloane Street, central London, in October 2005.

A piece of performance art, co-written by his aunt Christine Niering and based on mum Karen Niering's words remembering her son during the subsequent police inquiry into his death, was first staged to critical acclaim in 2007.

Now Chickenshed Theatre, where Mischa was a promising BTEC dance student and where his aunt is director of dance, is reviving As a Mother of a Brown Boy, which won the best original work by a collective/ensemble gong at the Total Theatre Awards in 2007.

The new version is set to run

Reflection: Cast members Gemilla Shamruk and Nathaniel Leigertwood

at Chickenshed, in Chase Side, Southgate, from tomorrow until Sunday.

Christine said: "Mischa's death was so close to us and he was my nephew. He was enrolled on to our BTEC course a year early and was a wonderful dancer. I would have liked to have seen him work with children as a teacher of performing arts. So in 2007 it was the obvious thing to base our work on.

"When something like Mischa's death happens there are a million and one people passing judgement, so the performance was a way for Karen to have the sort of catharsis not normally permitted to the families of people who die in this sort of way.

"The title of the work is a direct quote from Karen, who is white. It just rolled off her tongue all the time. Overriding the entire script is the love of a mother for her son. We wanted to do justice to him and for Karen to be heard. It became a reflection on her whole life with him from when he was born, their lives together, the choices she made and the tragic choice he finally made."

The show is a multimedia experience that uses light projection, dance and acting.

Christine added: "It is beautiful because a lot of the original cast and Dave Carey, who was instrumental in that performance, knew Mischa so well."

Family of four escape as home is set on fire

Fire scene: The house in St Stephen's Road

By Henry Ellis

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A FAMILY needed hospital treatment after their Enfield home was targeted in what police believe was an arson attack.

Officers are appealing for information after the fire at the house in St Stephen's Road, Enfield Wash, of a 25-year-old man, a 24-year-old woman and two children aged one and five.

The woman and the children have been discharged from hospital since the incident in the early hours of March 8. At the time of going to press yesterday the man remained in hospital in a stable condition.

The fire brigade have confirmed that an "accelerant" was used to start the fire deliberately.

Detective Constable Nick Waxham, of Enfield Police, said: "This is a serious incident. Had the occupants not been able to escape it could have resulted in serious injuries or even loss of a life."

Anyone who may have witnessed the incident, who was in the area at the time, or who has any information should contact Enfield Police on 101 or, to remain anonymous, contact Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Richard Power feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and Richard is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on

Moped warning after robberies

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

POLICE in Enfield are warning people to be on the lookout after a spate of knifepoint robberies.

Officers issued an appeal over Twitter, urging residents to beware of passengers on black mopeds following a series of robberies.

"Beware if you see a black moped with two passengers in Enfield," officers tweeted on Sunday. "They are committing robberies at knifepoint."

Please call 999 if seen." Police have not been able to provide further details about whether the robbers have been caught. Anyone with information can call 101 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

The police's Twitter feed also urged residents to beware of bogus callers, who claim to be "builders from next door" and are targeting elderly people.

Police have urged those with next-door neighbours having work carried out to be extra vigilant.

NEWS

Team will combat sexual exploitation of children

A NEW team of experts has been hired in Enfield to combat child sexual exploitation.

The Enfield Safeguarding Children Board has been set up ahead of National Child Sexual Exploitation Day today and is holding a special event designed to bring young people, professionals and council leaders together to look at the challenges the borough faces and what action is being taken to protect youngsters.

The CSE Champions have each received intensive training on how to identify the signs of exploitation.

To coincide with the event, Enfield Police are running Operation Makesafe, aimed at targeting taxi companies and hotels which have been used as fronts for paedophile rings.

Geraldine Gavin, Enfield CSE board chairwoman, said: "Our CSE Champions will play a vital role in identifying and tackling CSE in Enfield and will help protect our children and young people from harm and abuse.

"We will not sit idly by and we are absolutely committed to putting in place the safeguards we need to ensure that children are protected and families in Enfield know that they can come forward and raise concerns, and that something will be done about them."

Ayfer Orhan, Enfield Council's cabinet member for education, children's services and protection, said: "We have all heard and seen the news reports about the horrific abuse perpetrated against children in places such as Rotherham and Oxford and we must not be complacent in any way."

Four and five bedroom family homes adjoining open fields in Buntingford

Larkfield Rise is a pleasantly situated cul de sac adjoining open fields on the edge of the pretty market town of Buntingford. Built by Hertfordshire Developer Matthew Homes, the 16 four and five bedroom family homes have double garages, landscaped front gardens and fitted kitchens with gas and electrical appliances.

Recently launched, there are five different house types available to choose from according to price range and individual preferences. 4 bedroom houses are on the market from £485,000, whilst five bedroom house prices start from £560,000. A Show Home is available to view.

The town offers a variety of local Shops, supermarkets, pubs and restaurants. Leisure facilities, clubs and societies are excellent both in and around the town and include local football, rugby, netball and swimming clubs. East Herts golf club is at nearby Hamels Park. Many other societies including a local dramatic society, art society and toddler group are also available to join.

Buntingford is immediately accessible from the A10 linking Cambridge and London and the M25. Stansted Airport is within easy reach and rail services to both London (Kings Cross) and Cambridge are available from nearby Royston. Schooling is well catered for with two primary, one middle and one upper school.

To make an appointment to find out more about these perfectly located family homes please telephone 01992 663890 or email salesherts@lanesnewhomes.co.uk.

Help to buy is available on this scheme subject to status and usual Terms and Conditions.

Fabia makes perfect sense

By Matt Joy

THE Fabia is pretty much new from the ground up. The exterior is all-new, there's a stack of new engines to choose from and the suspension is heavily revised.

The estate version adds to this a substantial load area at the rear, which Skoda claims is the biggest in the class.

It majors on the practicality front elsewhere, too, with novel storage features including a rubbish bin in the door pocket and bottle holders on the inside shoulders of the front seats.

It's not hard to distinguish the Fabia Estate from its hatchback cousin thanks to the significant changes at the rear.

However, the estate rear is sensibly integrated into the original shape and as long as you choose a model with decent-sized wheels.

The Fabia Estate is one of the most sensible cars money can buy, so it's understandable that its image is pretty well-grounded rather than flash.

If you're a bit more adventurous with the options, however, you can create a Fabia Estate with more than a dash of style. As you'd expect the Fabia Estate is designed to be practical, but it's a remarkable feat at just how spacious this small car is.

With the seats up, there are 530 litres of space on offer – more than some estates from the class above – and with them folded, there are 1,395 litres on offer.

Passengers are looked after, too, and although getting five adults on board might be a squeeze it's big enough for family duties.

From behind the wheel, there's very little to distinguish the estate from its hatchback sibling, which is a credit to Skoda's efforts.

There's no noticeable increase in noise despite the extra space behind you and it drives with the same assured composure and comfort as the regular car.

Engine choice is slightly reduced compared to the hatch, which is sensible considering the extra loads it may have to carry.

The 1.2 TSI petrol is arguably the pick of the bunch, offering a flexible 89bhp and generous torque, spinning sweetly and quietly in normal driving, but happy to rev when required as well. Although slightly larger and heavier, the Fabia Estate is very composed through corners, with the electric power steering providing a decent amount of feedback and the suspension remaining unfazed by road imperfections.

The Fabia in third generation form is a little more expensive than before, but one thing it certainly doesn't skimp on is equipment. All models come with Bluetooth connectivity, DAB radio, electric front windows and heated door mirrors, height and reach adjustable steering column and tyre pressure monitoring as standard.

The only significant omission here is air conditioning, which comes with SE spec along with alloy wheels and an upgraded audio system.

Your sensible friend would queue round the block for a car like the Fabia Estate. It's the kind of purchase that needs no justification, given that it is relatively inexpensive, and is frugal with fuel and the amount of space it takes up on the road, but never feels cheap or pared-down.

It might not set your pulse racing, but you'd never regret buying it either.

Facts at a glance

Box Numbers

Boxes are required for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade advertising matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

15. All numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, to contact you about your application.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. You can withdraw consent by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

14. Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

15. Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

16. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

17. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

18. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers' control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

19. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

20. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

BLOW FOR SPURS

Costly loss: Mauricio Pochettino knows it will be hard for Spurs to finish in the top four

Borough leave it late to claim victory

A DRAMATIC late goal from Jorge Djassi-Sambu saw Harin-gey Borough snatch a 2-1 win at FC Romania in the Essex Senior League on Saturday.

The hosts made the brighter start and were rewarded for their enterprise with the opening goal on six minutes as Ilie Vasile took full advantage of some defensive hesitation.

Borough gradually improved as the first half progressed and they went close several times before finally levelling the scores just before the interval when debutant Carl Griffiths met Dean Fenton's cross with a clever near-post volley across the goal which ended up in the net.

The visitors had much the better of the second half, with Jonathan Constant and Griffiths both having good opportunities to put them ahead.

But they had to wait until three minutes from time to strike the decisive blow in spectacular fashion as Djassi-Sambu found the net with an acrobatic over-head kick.

The win keeps Borough in second place in the table, a point behind Barking but with four games in hand.

Meanwhile, a much-changed Borough side cruised through to the semi-finals of the Gordon Brasted Memorial Trophy with a comfortable 3-0 win at home to Sawbridgeworth Town on Tuesday last week.

Djassi-Sambu opened the scoring after just four minutes when he headed in his first goal for the club from a free-kick, but Borough needed debutant keeper Lain Artakiev to make several fine saves to maintain their lead prior to the interval.

The second half saw the hosts become increasingly dominant and they doubled their advantage on 49 minutes when Florin Peleacaci raced clear before finishing with a clinical low strike.

Constant then sealed victory by firing high into the net from ten yards out in the 64th minute as Borough set up a home tie against Clapton or Enfield (1893) – who met last night – in the semi-finals.

Haringey Borough face home games against Greenhouse London on Saturday (3pm) and Takeley on Tuesday (7.45pm).

Lovell makes the move to the Skolars

THE London Skolars have bolstered their squad by signing former London Broncos second-row forward Will Lovell as they build up to the start of their campaign in rugby league's Kingstone Press Championship One.

The Skolars parted company with head coach Joe Mbu last week following a dreadful start to the season, culminating in a club-record 86-4 home defeat at the hands of the Swinton Lions in the Challenge Cup.

Mbu is yet to be replaced on a permanent basis, but this has not stopped the club from strengthening their ranks by bringing the 21-year-old Lovell – who made eight appearances for the Skolars last season as part of the dual registration agreement which they have with the Broncos.

Lovell said: "After having a good experience playing on dual registration last year and after having a few troubled years with injury, I'm looking forward to playing regularly and staying injury free and hope to progress personally and as a team with the Skolars."

Lovell started his rugby league career with Northampton

Demons and was quickly spotted by the Broncos, making his Super League debut at the age of 18 and going on to make 33 top-flight appearances for the club.

"Will is a great player to have around the squad," Skolars skipper Dave Williams said. "He brings some great experience despite his age and I'm sure that teams will struggle to deal with his size out wide – as they struggled the times he has played for us before."

The London Skolars begin their league campaign with a home match against Hemel Stags on April 3.

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HEAD coach Mauricio Pochettino admits that Tottenham Hotspur face an uphill task if they are to finish in the top four in the Premier League this season following their hugely disappointing 3-0 defeat at Manchester United on Sunday.

Heading into the match, Spurs knew that a third successive win at Old Trafford would have seen them move level on points with fourth-placed United and given them a genuine chance of qualifying for the Champions League.

But instead of this, Tottenham produced a lacklustre display which saw them concede three times in the first half as they fell six points behind their hosts with just nine matches left.

"It will be difficult to finish fourth because we are fighting with big sides," Pochettino said. "It was a very bad day for us. I think that we all agreed together in the changing room that our performance was poor.

"Our performance was bad and I think we need to analyse why. We are disappointed because we didn't show our quality, our way and our philosophy.

"We must not think too much about this result and try to fix the problem. It was a very bad day for us. It's true that we conceded an early goal and after that it was difficult to manage the game. The first half was poor. We tried hard in the second half but it was too late.

"It's a shame because you always feel the energy from the start from our supporters and when we delivered this performance it's not easy. We all know in football that this can happen but we have to deliver now back at home on Saturday."

Meanwhile, Emmanuel Adebayor has claimed that Spurs' hopes of a top-four finish rest almost entirely on the shoulders of his fellow striker Harry Kane.

The in-form forward was named the Barclays Premier League Player of the Month for February last week – the second successive time that Kane has won the award – and Adebayor, who came off the bench at Old Trafford to make his first appearance since January, believes that he is the only man who can rescue their season.

"I think Harry is the only one who can save our season, like I did last year," Adebayor said. "If he keeps scoring two goals every weekend he can save us."

"People are starting to get to know him and what he can do and what he cannot do, his positives and negatives on the pitch but he is an intelligent lad and he just has to find his way."

"We all have huge faith and belief in him. Hopefully he will drag us out of the top seven and put us in the top four."
